Chicago's Big Diamond.

[Chicago Letter to the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

For the past week New York has reveled in a great diamond sensation, and Tiffany's has been thronged with gazers eager to behold the famous and costly wedding present of the Khedive of Egypt to Gen. Sherman's daughter, diamonds valued at $300,000. Now, it may not be, and possibly is not, known even in this city, that the Fidelity Safety Vaults of Chicago contain the largest pair of matched diamonds in this country outside of the late importation of the Khedive. These diamonds are valued at $20,000 each, weigh twenty carats apiece, and are perfect in cut and without flaw of blemish of any description, are unmounted and are "gems of the purest ray serene." About 600 other unset diamonds complete the Constellation of the Gemini. A wealthy diamond fancier, Mr. N. Lancaster, is the owner of this bonanza, the collection of which has occupied his time and means for the past fifteen years. All the large cities of England and the continent have been visited by him, and his several trips to the South African diamond fields have resulted in his securing the finest gems from that yield. Altogether the collection is an extraordinary one, and was it not for his retiring nature, a quality very rare in these days of triple-plated brass, would become famous throughout the country. Hermann, the New York diamond cutter, pronounces it the finest private collection ever brought over to this country.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

CONSUMPTIVES, TAKE NOTICE.—Every moment of delay makes your cure more hopeless, and much depends on the judicious choice of a remedy. The amount of testimony in favor of Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure for consumption, far exceeds all that can be brought to support the pretensions of any other medicine. See Dr. Schenck's Almanac, containing the certificates of many of the highest respectability, who have been restored to health, after being pronounced incurable by physicians of acknowledged ability. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many, as these evidences will show; but the cure is often promoted by the employment of two other remedies which Dr. Schenck provides for the purpose. These additional remedies are Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills. By the timely use of these medicines, according to directions, Dr. Schenck certifies that most any case of Consumption may be cured.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, Corner Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. feb4—deod1m

PATAPSCO GUANO.

PATAPSCO COMPANY'S

"Grange Mixture."

THIS ARTICLE, AS SHOWN BY THE ANALYSIS OF

Professor W. J. LAND, Chemist,

OF Atlanta, contains the following valuable constituents:

Ammonia, 1.41 per cent. value	$ 7 05
Phosphoric Acid and Soluble and precipitated, 12.90 per cent. value	38 70
Ditto. not dissolved, 2.31 per cent. value	2 30
Potash, soda and magnesia, not determined by him, but there is present in the mixture from 15 per cent. to 20 per cent. of genuine "Kainit," German potash salts infused by the company, value	6½
	$54 80

Dr. G. A. Liebig's Analysis

Shows the following results:

Ammonia, 1.26 per cent. value	$ 6 25
Phosphoric Acid, Soluble and Precipitated, 13.90 per cent. value	41 70
Ditto, not dissolved, 1.24 per cent. value	1 20
Potash, soda and magnesia, 15.55 per cent. value	6 25
	$55 40

This is not what is termed "Acid Phosphate," but like the regular "PATAPSCO" a "COMPLEX ARTICLE," and differing from it only in the relative quantities of its constituents – it being designed mainly for use in composting with Cotton Seed. It has less ammonia than "Patapsco," but is fully its equal in every other respect, therefore, when used in that way upon exhausted and other soils deficient in organic matter, it will make a maximum crop even on such lands.

For used on soils having present vegetable matter, it can be applied without seed. It is best to bring the fertilizer near the surface, so the young plant may receive benefit and its properties distributed for later wants of the crop.

This article has been on trial in Maryland for several years, where large quanties are now sold. Last year we sold a "Club" in North Carolina, over 100 TONS FOR COTTON, which was used by more than 20 Different Planters with Entire Satisfaction to each.

The gentlemen who conducted the correspondence, has since stated that the results have exceeded that of any other fertlizer they had ever used.

The article sent them had less organic matter than our present make, by ONE-HALF, but in other respects the same. They used about 300 to 400 pounds seed to 200 pounds of mixture, and applied according to the wants of the soil.

PATAPSCO GUANO!

We have received direct from the Company, by steamer via Port Royal, a fresh supply of this

RELIABLE FERTILIZER!

The results of the past season demonstrate, beyond question, that its former reputation has been fully sustained, and we are assured by

gentlemen of the highest integrity, who are jointly the sole managers and principal owners, that EVERY single package of it is guaranteed of Uniform Quality & High Grade.

It is equal, if not superior to any brand manufactured, and fully up to the high standard it has heretofore maintained.

We annex a few certificates and extracts of letters received by the Company and selected from their correspondence as a fair specimen of the whole.

ADAIR & BROTHERS, Atlanta, Ga.

AUGUSTA, GA., January 27, 1875.

Geo. W. Grafflin, Esq., Treasurer Patapsco Guano Company:

DEAR SIR—My evidence before the committee was decided in character. Since 1868 I have each year been selling it and in every single instance but one it has given satisfaction. The party referred to I afterwards found had intentionally done it injustice. You can use this as you deem best. Yours truly,

[Signed] M. A. STOVALL.

GRIFFIN, GA., January 23, 1875.

Patapsco Guano Company, Baltimore:

GENTS—I take pleasure in certifying that my firm received in September, 1873, 58 barrels of "Patapsco" Guano, direct from the Company, and sold 54 of same to 13 farmers planting in this and Butts county. Every man has paid, no complaints made, and a majority stated that they had never used an article that paid them better. The above was all that came in barrels. The other shipments came in bags, and all sold by me has given general satisfaction, and is regarded by planters as a good and reliable fertilizer. I have been over twelve years in the guano trade, and have never sold one that has given more general satisfaction. Respectfully,

L. R. BREWER, Sr., now of the firm of L. R. Brewer & Son.

RALEIGH, N. C., January 21, 1875.

Mr. G. W. Graffling, Treasurer Patapsco Guano Company:

DEAR SIR—It gives us pleasure to state that we have sold your Patapsco Guano, for past three years, to our customers, with entire satisfaction to them and ourselves. We sell from 200 to 300 tons a season. We have no complaint of any falling off in quality of that sold last season. All who use it were well satisfied. Yours truly,

WILLIAMSON, UPCHURCH & THOMAS.

SAVANNAH, GA., January 21st, 1875.

This is to certify that I have sold the Patapsco Guano to the planters of Georgia for the past two years, and that it hast given entire satisfaction to all my customers, with the exception of a few irresponsible parties who would not pay any just debt.

D. B. HULL.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this 21st day of January, 1875.

A. L. REES. Notary Public.

SAVANNAH, January 20th, 1875.

This is to certify that I have sold the Patapsco Guano for two years and that it has given general satisfaction to those who purchased it. I believe it to be the best Commercial Manure now offered for sale. Respectfully, DWIGHT L. ROBERTS.

Sworn to and subscribed before me; this 21st day of January, 1875.

A. L. REES, Notary Public C. C. Ga.

SAVANNAH, GA., January 21st, 1875.

This will certify that from February, 1869, to March, 1874, I have had not less than 12 full commercial analyses made in my Laboratory of the Patapsco Guano. It has always met my endorsement, based upon quality and quality of its nutrient elements. It has varied like most manures, somewhat in proportion of its elements, but has never fallen below the standard. Since January, 1875, and up to March 16, 1875, it has, by testing, four different analysis within that time, averaged in my hands, Ammonia 2.86 per cent., Soluble Phosphoric and Precipitate do., availab first year, 11.20 per cent., together with the average of 8 per cent. of common or insoluble Phosphoric Acid, which, by undergoing chemical reaction underground, during the succeeding fall winter season, prepares the soil for a better yield the succeeding year. The last analysis made March 16th, 1874, was of a high order. Another cargo for this season is now on the way here but has not yet arrived—designed for this season. On the whole I cannot but rank it as a first-class fertilizer.

A. MEANS, Inspector, Savannah, Chatham county, Georgia.

ATLANTA, GA., January 20th, 1875.

Messrs. Adair & Bros., Agents. Atlanta, Georgia,

GENTLEMEN—The car load (8 tons) of Patapsco Guano that I purchased from you last season, gave entire satisfaction. I used it upon cotton, and am satisfied that the investment paid me handsomely. I can safely say that it is a fertilizer of high grade.

Yours, respectfully, A. J. ORME.

The above is of same lot shipped in September or October, that Professor White's sample came out of, that is, the lot of which the sample was drawn from by Secretary Johnston and analyzed by Prof. White and published to the great injury of the Company.

Atlanta, January 20, 1875. ADAIR & BROS.

ROME, GA., January 23, 1875.

Geo. W. Grafflin, Treasurer, at Atlanta:

DEAR SIR—I take pleasure in giving results of my application of "Patapsco" aside of "Meeryman's" on 14 acres of river bottom on my farm near Rome, same shown you 15th October last. Boy, Wash McGruder, used 200 pounds "Patapsco" per acre. Boy, Randall Baker, used same quantity of "Merryman's" Results—Randall Baker made 6 bales, 550 pounds each, say 3,500 pounds on 7 acres. Wash McGruder, on land somewhat higher, came out better than Baker. I think there was some differenced caused by land being higher. All things equal, results would have been about same.

Yours truly, THOMAS BERRY, of Berry & Co.

This apportionment gives seven of the districts to the democrats, (taking the last election as a test,) by majorities ranging from 1,300 to 9,000, leaving the republicans the fourth district, in which they have 14,655 majority.

JUDGE POLAND has earned the bitter enmity of the carpet-baggers by his independence and courage in reporting on the Arkansas case. United States District Judge Smalley, of Vermont, has become disabled, and a bill has been passed authorizing the president to accept his resignation; his salary to continue. Judge Poland was the most prominent—indeed almost the only—candidate for the place, but some of the carpetbaggers who are most influential with Gen. Grant are said to have informed Judge Poland within a few days that he cannot have the place; he is not considered sound.

THE portrait of the Hon. Jefferson Davis has been added to the gallery in the office of the war department at Washington, under the law of congress authorizing the collection of the portraits of all who have filled the position of secretary since the organization of the government. The likeness is said to be a very excellent one by those who have seen it and are well acquainted with the original. This looks as though the era of good feeling was not impossible, and if only that of honesty and patriotism would return along with it, we might be happy as a nation.

SENATOR-ELECT ANDREW JOHNSON, is expected to arrive at Washington next week in anticipation of the extra session of the senate. He will be publicly received by his friends, and on that day there will be put into circulation a large engraving, handsomely embellished, containing fac-similes of the autographs of senators and representatives who voted for and against his impeachment, with other information on that subject. The portrait of Mr. Johnson at the head of the chart is from a photograph recently taken. Nine senators of the fortieth, or impeachment congress are dead. Twelve will serve with him in the coming, or forty-fourth congress.—N. Y. World.

Cheap Transportation.

The people of Savannah have at last opened their eyes to the fact that the Atlantic and Great Western canal would be a good thing for Savannah and the rest of the state. For years we have urged the feasibility of this great water line, but we never succeeded in eliciting a spark of support from the city by the sea. It has come at last, however, and in plenteous measure, and we are glad of it. The state is now practically an unit in support of the work, and its success is only a matter of time.

It is just to Georgia's principal sea port to say that she has not heretofore been in possession of facts upon which an intelligent opinion could be based. The presence of Col. B. W. Frobel, the government engineer in charge of the river surveys,—loaded to the muzzle with the results of several months' survey of the whole line from Guntersville on the Tennessee river to the coast, has produced surprising enthusiasm in the dignified people of the ancient city. And the Colonel's facts and statements justify it all, for they indisputably prove that the work can be completed for a reasonable amount, and the whole world knows we sadly need it.

In the first place Col. Frobel denies that it is a canal route—it is a river route, nature having done the larger part of the work. Let us start at St. Louis, the trade center of the vast Mississippi basin. The father of waters, and its tributaries will float us to Guntersvile on the Tennessee river, with only one obstruction on the route—the Muscle Shoals, which are being removed by the government under the direction of one of the ablest engineers in the service. A neck of land intervenes between the Tennessee at Gunter's and the Coosa river. In this neck are two large creeks, the one emptying into the Tennessee, and the other into the Coosa. These creeks can be connected without great difficulty by a canal, while another large creek on the top of Sand Mountain will furnish an ample supply of water. Col. Frobel distinctly says that Sand Mountain presents no unusual problem in engineering.

The route now ascends the Coosa and its tributaries, and by a canal about fifty miles long is transferred to the waters of the Ocmulgee at a point near Covington. Slack water navigation will be needed as far down as Macon, and below that city it is only a matter of removing logs and snags from the channels of navigable streams. In other words, the route is composed of seventy-five miles of canal and nine hundred and twenty five miles of river.

And then when Col. Frobel told the people of Savannah that the route is the shortest posible one between Cairo and the sea, being nine hundred miles shorter than the one via the lakes; when he explained that it would not suffer from ice in winter, drought in summer, nor from any climactic influences in any season; when he showed that its construction would fill upper Georgia with forges and furnaces; when he asserted that its completion would stimulate the production of cotton, and would give Savannah direct trade with foreign ports—then the merchants and other citizens of Savannah, in meeting assembled, enthusiastically resolved that the canal should be built "as a matter of vital importance to the prosperity of city and state."

They want to begin the work at once and the following resolution explains the method they favor:

That in our opinion no more profitable and proper disposition could be made of the convict force of the state than to employ it upon the construction of this great work, and to this end we call upon our representatives in the state legislature to urge it upon the attention of that body.

The Savannah News reduces this plan to very pleasant figures. The convicts of the state could build the Georgia portion of the canal in two years. It would then belong to the state, and the revenue it would produce, at the rate of a royalty of two mills a ton, would defray the expenses of the state government, and the interest on the public debt, besides contributing largely to the sinking fund. The News then triumphantly asks, upon what work could these convicts be employed with greater profit? It adds:

We hope our people will urge this proposition upon the legislature. Let our delegation in congress be authorized to say that if the government will clean out the rivers and open them so that this connection can be made, that Georgia will build her portion of this line, and let it be provided that the convicts be employed upon it.

Our Savannah friends are certainly enthusiastic, but not unwisely so. The project will certainly be carried out. Nothing of the future is more certain. The rivers that nature has wonderfully provided between St. Louis and the sea must be made useful by the construction of the two short connecting canals. The time for laughing down this project has passed, and the sooner it is built the better for Georgia.

The Macon and Brunswick Bonds.

The report of the joint committee recommends the legislature to assume the payment of the entire issue of first mortgage bonds, amounting in the aggregate to $1,950,000. As to a million dollars of these bonds there is no question, the state having agreed to issue them without condition, But it is, virtually admitted that the company did not fulfill conditions to entitle it to an endorsement of the state upon $950,000 more of bonds. The committee indulge in a great deal of arithmetic to show that private persons invested a considerable amount of money; but the fact after all remains that less than $800-000 of stock was paid in, and no amount of figuring can raise the investments by individuals in this concern up to the amount endorsed by the state which was the all-essential condition of additional endorsements. The state has, however, seized the road, and as it is almost impossible to separate the good bonds from the bad bonds of this issue, the committee recommends the assumption by the state of the whole lot. It seems to be the only way out of the tangle, and will doubtless be accepted as a final decision of the vexed question.

After the railroad was completed, Bullock endorsed another lot of bonds for this company at the rate of $3,000 a mile. These were second mortgage bonds, and $400,000 of them were shoved out. The capital of the company was certainly insufficient to cover this endorsement, and if it had been, the state could not have a prior lien for its security as the constitution requires. The committee therefore recommends that these second mortgage bonds be declared unconstitutional, null and void, except as to the rights of persons who have purchased upon the faith of the resolution of 1872.

The committee further recommends the sale of the railroad before the first day of next June, at public or private sale, and upon such terms, and for such prices in money or valid bonds of the state, as the governor shall approve.

Legislative Summary.

The senate yesterday passed the house usury bill, and Dr. Thomas' bill create a state board of health.

The house reconsidered the resolution relative to the Texas and Pacific railroad.

The house pased the bill to prevent cruelty to animaly; to make penal the carrying of slung shots and knucks; and appropriated $12,500 additional to the Lunatic Asylum.

The bill to allow local taxation to supplement public school tax was indefinitely postponed, and the bill to make jurors judges of the law as well as of the facts was tabled.

The House closed out the calendar of its bills last night.

Waving the Homestead.

The senate has passed a bill allowing parties to waive the homestead, and we trust that the house will follow the senate's example in a course that seems so unmistakably demanded by existing circumstances. As there is no lien law, and the legislature has refused to re-enact one, the only hope of obtaining credit in the case of thousands of small farmers and others, is by means of the bill in question. We hope, therefore, that the house will pass the senate bill, and thus mitigate the evils resulting from the present homestead and the absence of former lien laws.

JUDGE S. J. R. MCMILLAN, the new senator from Minnesota, is the present chief justice of the state supreme court. He has been on the bench for many years, and his participation in politics has been confined to the act of casting his own vote. He is fifty years old, a prominent Presbyterian, and an honest man although he belongs to the republican party. It is not thought that he will set the Potomac on fire.

THE Rome Commercial anticipates a satisfactory settlement of the city debt at the meeting which is to be held on the tenth of next month. It believes the bondholders will meet the authorities of Rome in a conciliatory spirit, that will result in a reduction of the debt. To pay interest on the present amount would bankrupt every citizen of Rome, says the Commercial.

THE Albany News says Col. B. G. Lockett has attached the entire Brunswick & Albany road, in his mammoth suit for $750,000 for an alleged violation of contract. There will not be, however, any interference with the present management of the road.

IN our editorial on the "Gold Robbery" the types should have had it that the money belonged to the Virginia banks not to the confederate treasury. The account has been published in our weekly, a few copies of which are for sale.

CIVIL RIGHTS TO BE PRESSED.

THOMAS HAUCK.

An Explanation.

By Telegraph to the Constitution.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Feb. 22.—In answer to the statement of Mr. Albright in congress last Wednesday, that no associated press agent called on the majority of the investigation committee when in Alabama for information, the agent at this point says that he called on General Coburn, when he showed him a letter from Mr. Simonton instructing the agent to get news from members of the committee, and asked Mr. Coburn to give him what information he could. Mr. Coburn's response was that he was busy and had no time to attend to such matters and did not even suggest to him to call again. The agent then sought other sources for information.

WILLIAM S. KING EXPLAINS

A Letter from ex-Postmaster King to His Constituents—He is Preparing His Vindication—A Lecture to State Senators.

ST. PAUL, MINN., Feb. 18.—A long letter has been received from William S. King, addressed to the legislature, in response to a resolution requesting him to explain his connection with the Pacific mail business, or resign as a member elect of the next congress. Mr. King denies the right of the legislature to inquire into his private affairs; to undertake to censure or to demand his resignation and denounces as a legislative lie (which epithets he puts in italics) the assumption that he had done wrong. He then adds: "What I did with a large sum of money about the time of the passage of the Pacific Mail Subsidy bill is a matter which I do not propose to disclose to the world except in my own good time, nor until evidence which I am unable to reach can be secured to the end that the exact facts in the case can be presented to the public which will bring to me the fullest and most complete vindication against the falsehoods which you have specified in your respective journals. Until that time, which, I trust, is not far distant, I have only to say that not one dollar of money received by me, of which so much has been talked and written, was ever intended or applied to the influencing of a vote on the Pacific mail subsidy; and no word or line of all the evidence that was taken during this long and most searching investigation, ever points to any such conclusion: and so conscious of my own rectitude in this matter and pausing here to tender that one representative who has just enough toward me to refuse his assent to your lying declarations my grateful thanks, I present to your and the public consideration."

The rest of Mr. King's letter is devoted entirely and at great length to the vituperation of state senators Donnelly and Wilkinson, charging that they are, judging by their record in congress, no better than they should be. His letter is dated February 11, but has no post-office address attached.

The Beecher Trial.

Mr. Beecher's sons are working very hard in his behalf, and every day are with some of the younger counsel seeking out testimony and perfecting plans outside of the court room. Henry Beecher, Jr., is a smart young insurance agent in Court street, Brooklyn, and during this trial he intrusts his business to his brother Herbert, and joins with his brother William in helping the lawyers Mr. J. L. Hill, Gen. Tracy and a Mr. P. Keady are busy all of every day, outside of the court. With different branches of the case, and it is asserted by one who is in Mr. Beecher's employ that six lawyers, whose names have not been made public, are at work for him—making thirteen in all. General Tracy is committing his opening speech to memory, and is waiting patiently to be called into the court room to deliver it. The defense have a long list of witnesses, and the working lawyers outside the court room are learning specifically what each one can testify to. They pass the result of their work into Mr. Shearman's hands, who has the clerks trained to arrange matters to a nicety, and the results will be that the facts for the defense will be woven strongly to-gether, and made to good advantage,

Fantastic.

(By Telegraph to The Constitution.)

PHILADELPHIA, February 22.—The Orion club centennial guards numbering 150, marceed through the streets this morning before their departure to Fort Washington for target practice. Everything was in the highest order of burlesque. The guard paraded infantry, cavalry and artillery. The infantry were dressed in all manner of ancient uniforms, probably no two alike, carried shot guns, lock pistols, carbines, and the cavalry were mounted on stage horses made of basket work, and exhibited also great disimilarity of uniforms. There arms were immense holster pistols and swords of massive weight. The artillery consisted of a pasteboard cannon drawn by 14 of the largest brewers horses to be had in the city.

The Railroad War.

By Telegraph to The Constitution]

PHILADELPHIA, February 22.—The evening telegraph says there are no new features in the war between presidents Scott and Garrett and there is preliminary opinion that the struggle will soon come to an end, not by compromise, but by the retreat of the latter, there are many, however, who assert that the contest will be a long one and steadily maintained on both sides.

NEW YORK, February 22.—Veterans of 1812 to the number of about 28, under command of Gen. Henry Raymond, were entertained at a dinner to-day by the officers of the sixth regiment in the Germania assembly rooms. Their ages varied from 70 to 85, and as they filed in their names were attached to a petition praying for the passage by congress of the bill for the allowance for men who served in the war of 1812 over thirty days, and widows married prior to 1825.

MATTERS AT WASHINGTON.

Contested Election Cases.

Morton's Amendment on Counting Electoral Votes Tabled.

$750,000 Appropriated for Southern Claims.

[Telegraphed from Washington for publication in the Constitution.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Nominations—Commodore Reed, rear admiral; Captain Hughes, admiral.

Sypher, and Sheridan was contestant against Pinchback as representative of the state at large. The majority report was signed by three democrats and three republicans; the minority report was signed by five republicans, including the chairman of the committee.

The day was consumed in voting on propositions to suspend the rules for a variety of purposes.

The proposition to take up the bill to regulate the freedman's bank was defeated.

The proposition to make the Texas and Pacific railroad bill a special order for next Wednesday was also defeated.

The bill to pay the awards of the southern claims commissioners about $750,000 was passed.

The bill to pay the claims allowed by the secretary of treasury was defeated.

The bill for the reorganization of the quartermaster's department of the United States army was passed.

In the senate a memorial was presented by the board of trade, bankers and merchants of New York, against annulling the Pacific mail contracts. A bill providing for the distribution of certain official documents and congressional records passed. Lewis moved to adjourn the senate in honor of Washington's birthday. Windom, who had charge of the Indian appropriation bill, refused to yield the floor, The Indian appropriation bill passed.

Johnson presented a resolution of the Virginia legislature against increase of the tobacco tax. The pension appropriation bill was considered.

Morton moved the amendment of the bill reported by the committee on privileges and elections for counting votes for president and vice-president was tabled, ayes 32, nays 30.

Morton renewed his amendment. He said under operation of the 22d joint rule the objection of either house would suffice to throw out the electoral votes of a state, and the continuance of this rule would result in throwing the election of the next president in the house of representative, and he wanted those who voted against his amendment to understand that they would be responsible for it, and in this connection, he called their attention to the fact that the democratic senators had all voted to lay his amendment on the table.

WASHINGTON, February 22.—The caucus this morning reached no conclusion beyond that that they will dispose of the appropriation bills as they reach them from hence, and give Pinchback and the civil rights bill ad interim attention.

THE WEST VIRGINIA SENATORSHIP.

The Dead Lock Broken—Allen T. Caperton Chosen United States Senator—The Walker Men off Their Guard—Sketch of the Senator-Elect.

[Correspondence of the New York Tribune.]

CHARLESTON, W. VA., Feb. 17.—Allen T. Caperton, of Union, Monroe county, was to-day elected by the legislature, in joint session, United States senator, to succeed ex Gov. Boreman, the present senator from this state. The election of Mr. Caperton took everybody, including himself, by surprise, as his chances had already been considered inferior to those of the other candidates. The session found the Walker men wholly off their guard. They, anticipating no election, were giving Judge Moore of the state supreme court a complimentary vote, as they did yesterday to State Senator McGinnis. It was understood that the election was to be delayed until the action of Governor Jacob on the capital removal bill was made public; but a rumor was originated and whispered through the joint assembly that the governor had signed the bill—which was untrue—and the election of Mr. Caperton immediately followed. It required 43 votes to elect; Caperton received 35 on the roll call of the second ballot; but before the announcement of the vote, 33 members changed their votes in Caperton's favor, making his total 68.

Mr. Caperton was born in Monroe county, Va., in 1811. He is therefore 64 years old. He is a man of unimpeachable character and fine education, a model of dignity, and of great and acknowledged legal ability; faultless in dress, handsome in person, and in every way an accomplished man of the world. A flowing, snow white beard reaches to his waist, and gives a patriarchal caste to his appearance. He was graduated from Yale college in 1832, and was senator in the confederate congress at Richmond in 1863. He is a strong southern man in principle, but his breadth of opinion and high character as a citizen secure him undivided respect. When the news of his election was carried to him at his room at the Hale house, he was first astounded, then nearly overcome with emotion. He was congratulated by many friends, including Walker and Camden, defeated candidates A joint legislative committee, consisting of Senators Camden and McGinnis, and Delegates Blackmore, Welch, and Schon, waited upon the senator-elect and informed him of his election. Mr. Caperton was not the nominee of the caucus, his name having been dropped. There was a grand demonstration at the Hale house to night—a serenade by Gates' silver cornet band, and speeches by Mr. Caperton and others.

Kansas Pomeroy's $7,000.

It will be remembered that some two years ago Mr. York, a member of the Kansas legislature, defeated S. C. Pomeroy for the United States senate by voting for him and laying upon the Speaker's desk as his "motive" for so doing, a roll of greenbacks which counted out $7,000. Ever since these greenbacks have been lying idle for want of an owner; York repudiated them as bribe money; Pomeroy declined to accept them, although confessing he had given them to York to hand to a fellow-citizen of the latter when he returned home; and the "fellow-citizen" never turned up. At length a claimant appears: John H. Shimmons, of Lawrence, formerly publisher of the Tribune, sold to S. C. Pomeroy a third interest in that paper, and an order was given to Shimmons for the $7,000 held by the authorities at Topeka, as part of the purchase money. The order reads as follows:

"CHICAGO, November 5, 1873.—For value received, receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, I hereby transfer to John H. Shimmons, of Lawrence, Ks., all my right, title and interest in and to $7,000, handed by me to A. M. York, last January, and now reported to be in the custodianship of the treasurer of the state of Kansas, and I agree to maintain the title of the same to the said Shimmons, his heirs and assigns.

It is claimed that Pomeroy wanted the Tribune for puffing purposes, and to hold in check certain unruly parties. But Pomeroy has gone back on this order, and, through his attorney's filed a petition to have the money turned over to Pomeroy's agent. This, of course, meant a division of the money among those who were instrumental in getting the thing through. Mr. Shimmons has already commenced legal proceedings to make his claim good.

This $7,000 cleared away, Shawnee county will refuse to pay any more money to prosecute Pomeroy, and the "great statesman" will go free.

Our Judiciary System.

To the Legislature of Georgia:

The object of this writing is to call your attention to the fact that there is something radically wrong in our present judiciary system, and which often results in a virtual denial of the sacred right of trial by jury. It is done now, to enable you individually to investigate the matter thoroughly and to come to your next session prepared with some well digested plan by which this crying evil can be remedied. And I know of no better way by which to impress upon your minds a clear perception of the manner in which parties are now deprived the right of jury trial, than to submit to your consideration the following case, just as it went up to, and passed through the supreme court, and therefore I give you that case as made by the record:

James P. Simmons, plaintiff in error, vs Georgia V. Martin, administratrix, etc., defendant. From Gwinnett. Brief of points submitted by plaintiff in error, and of authorities relied on.

Georgia V. Martin, administratrix of Clarissa C. Gordon, brought suit at common law, and in the short form, against the plaintiff in error, on the following paper:

"$1,668 00. Received of Mrs. C. C. Gordon, sixteen hundred and sixty-three dollars (in notes on myself to that amount) which sum I am to loan out and keep at interest for her during the pleasure of both parties, and to turn over to her the proceeds thereof on request, the interest accruing thereon payable annually in currency while I manage the same for her, and I hereby bind myself to turn over to her good notes or fi fas to the amount on demand, and to guarantee the payment thereof. Feb. 23d, 1865.

(Signed) JAMES P. SIMMONS.

Attest:

This case depends mainly on the construction of that contract, and counsel for plaintiff in error insist:

1. That the instrument sued on is an agreement, in the nature of a covenant, to do certain things, and not a contract for the payment of money; and that the relations of debtor and creditor ceased between the parties, on giving up the notes and substituting the receipt and agreement in lieu thereof, and were succeeded by those of principal and agent. "The cardinal rule of construction is to ascertain the intention of the parties." Code 2755. That such was the intention of the parties in this case is clear.

2. That any legal judgment recovered on that instrument must be for the damage sustained in consequence of the non performance of some stipulation therein, The judgment is for damages "sustained by reason of the defendant's non-performance of his promises and undertakings." 1 Chit. on Pl. 108, Ib. 98 and 99. See also Ib. 117, 118, 119, 132.

3. That, to authorize a recovery on that paper, it is necessary that some breach of the contract be specially alleged and proved, and to justify more than nominal damages, the real damage resulting from such breach must be proved, and that the record shows no such allegation or proof in this case.

The breach alleged must show the subject matter of complaint, and the damages must be stated, "particularly," or they cannot be proved. 1 Saunders on Pl. and Ev., 220 and 221.

4 That the legal and true construction of the last clause in that receipt and agreement is, that defendant below thereby agreed and bound himself, in the event referred to, "to turn over (to Mrs. Gordon) good notes or fi. fas, to the amount," and that if any of them should prove not collectable, to indemnify her against loss on that account, or to pay her the amount of any such himself, and therefore his liability to suit thereon, under the evidence produced, is not primary and absolute, but secondary and contingent only. "Warranty and guaranty were the same," etc. 2 Parsons on Con., 3. "If the guaranty be that the debt or note is collectable, legal proceedings against all the principals are requisite to make the guarantor liable, because otherwise it cannot be certainly known that the note cannot be collected," Ib., 29. From the reading of the contract sued on, such was the manifest intention of the parties thereto. "The subject matter of the contract must be duly considered"—the situation of the parties at the time, and of the property which is the subject-matter of the contract, and the intention and purpose of the parties in making the contract"—"this intention will be carried into effect." Ib. 499 and following. Tit. Construction.

5. The paper sued on contains no agreement or promise to make or deliver any future, or other, writing to carry that into effect, and if the defendant below is liable in virtue thereof to answer for the insolvency of any note or fi. fa, turned over or tendered, in compliance therewith, he is liable on that paper, and as fully as any other, or others, which he could have made, pursuant thereto, and therefore plaintiff sustained no damage in consequence of a failure to give any other sort of guaranty of the papers tendered. Sec. 21, Ga. 97.

From the evidence it is clear that counsel for plaintiff below based their right to recover alone, on the refusal of defendant to give some other writing, as a guaranty of the payment of the notes and fi. fas. tendered, and they did not allege or attempt to prove that those tendered were not solvent and good.

6. That under the facts and circumstances, as they appear from the record, the motion for new trial was amendable, and should have been amended as proposed, to enable the court and jury to administer substantial justice to the parties. Code 3479, 3482, 3500 No. 3; 41 Ga. 577.

And therefore counsel for plaintiff in error insist that the court erred: 1. In refusing a non-suit, because there was no proof of indebtedness, or of damage to the plaintiff, and in holding that no proof of damage was necessary.

2. In ordering to be stricken from the record the pleas of defendant—of tender and compliance with his said contract, "as agreed in and by the paper sued on"—of an assignment to plaintiffs intestate of certain notes and fi. fas. to the amount, &c., by agreement with her, and which defendant held as her agent, and so tendered—and that the notes and fi. fas. tendered were good and the makers of the notes and defendants in the fi. fas. are solvent, and in holding that said pleas presented no legal defense to said suit.

3. In rejecting as evidence said letter from Mrs. Gordon, and the evidence of R. D. Winn, that the notes tendered were taken by defendant as the agent of, and for the benefit of Mrs. Gordon—to prove that defendant was acting in that matter as her agent and not as her debtor—as immaterial.

4 In rejecting the evidence of the solvency of the makers of the notes tendered, because the plea thereof had been stricken out.

5. And in refusing a new trial in said case on all the grounds aforesaid—because it is manifest from the record that error in law was committed on said trial, and to the great damage of defendant, and in giving the plaintiff a judgment for some four or five hundred dollars more than the amount of the fund held by defendant as aforesaid. See Graham on New Trials, 180, and 26 Georgia, 528.

It is assumed, as conclusion in this case:

1. That no case can be found wherein a judgment has been recovered on a contract, other than to pay a certain sum of money, without proof of a breach of the contract and of the damage which resulted therefrom.

2. Nor is there a case to be found, wherein the relations of debtor and creditor did not exist between the parties, in which a judgment was recovered on a contract, without proof of a breach and as to the damage which resulted from such breach.

Wherefore, it is insisted that the judgment of the court below be reversed, and a new trial ordered in said case."

W. W. Clark and A. L. Hutchins, for defendant in error, submitted the following points, but cited no authorities:

The receipt and obligation sued on is an original obligation, with a proviso that it may be discharged in a certain way favorable to the obligor. His refusal to discharge it in that way fixed his liability to pay the amount in money.

The construction of the contract by the Supreme Court, at July term, 1874, defines the rights of the parties to it, and any plea that does not make the issue thereunder is defective, and not a legal defence to the action.

TRIPPE, J.

The court held:

1. That if on a settlement under said contract the proceeds of the amount deposited were in notes or fi. fas. on third persons, the payee had the right, at the time of the settlement, to demand that the maker of the instrument should guaranty the payment of such notes and fi. fas

2. An action can be maintained on the contract for the amount specified in it, by proof that the plaintiff demanded a settlement with such a guaranty, and a refusal by the maker to give it, although he tendered the papers which were the proceeds of the fund so received.

3. If the defendant pleads a tender of the notes and fi. fas. he should show that it was accompanied by an offer to guaranty, as stipulated in the contract.

4. If it be pleaded that the money was invested in the notes and fi fas with the knowledge and consent of the payee, it should appear that it was intended by the parties to have been a satisfaction and discharge of defendant's liability to give the guaranty before it could so operate.

5. So also any consent by an agent of the administratrix that the defendant might compromise one of the fi fas is no waiver of plaintiff's right, unless it was so intended and understood at the time such consent was given.

Judgment affirmed.

From the record it appears that two of the chief grounds alleged as error in the court below, are that the court prevented the losing party from proving the very facts which the supreme court held it necessary he should have proved to make his defense good.

And so it was that a party fell between the two courts, covered only with the slanderous charge (made by the record) of having acted in bad faith toward an old lady, whose confidence he had, and without ever having had the privilege of proving the facts of the case before any court or jury.

Gentlemen, the subject is before you. It is not my purpose in this to complain of nor to offend any one. Such cases are of frequent occurrence. Our judiciary laws are defective. The supreme court is not always correctly nor fully informed of what transpired in the court below.

DOWN TO DEATH.

An Insane Man Jumps From the Dome of the Capitol at Washington—He Falls 170 Feet and is Fearfully Mangled.

[Washington Republican.]

Many men have been foolish enough, at different times, to conceive the idea that for a man to win greatness no easier way was presentable than to do a deed of daring that would strike terror to the hearts of a community. One of the deeds most frequently suggested, but less likely of being committed, was that of jumping from the dome of the Capitol to the ground below, a distance of nearly three hundred feet. It was never supposed that a man in his sane senses would ever attempt such an exploit, as the odds for life were fearfully outbalanced in the scale of chances. Still the attempt was made yesterday, about one o'clock, and with the result that might have been expected, the man, when found, being an almost unrecognizable mass of clothing, blood and bones. An hour previous to making the leap he had been seen by a telegraph operator on the roofs about the main building, climbing light ladders and making dangerous ventures towards the eaves, but acting in a manner to indicate that he possessed strong nerves and perfect control over himself. Not having time to spend in watching him, the electrician proceeded to attend to his business.

Afterwards he mounted to the upper outside gallery that encircles the crest of the dome at the base of the pedestal to the statute of the goddess of liberty. Taking a view of the different sections of the city, which this point commands, he finally halted on the east side directly over the main entrance. Here he first attracted the notice of a coachman mounted on the box of his carriage, which was situated on the roadway near the east park, by climbing upon the railing of the balcony. He was seen to assume an upright position, look around, gather himself and shoot out into the space intervening between where he stood and the ground. He turned as he descended and came head foremost, soon striking the iron cornice of the lower gallery, which forced him off on the iron braces beneath, and also show marks of blood where he hit in passing. He then landed head first on the copper roof of the main building, a distance of 170 from where he started. Information of the fact was immediately given to Capt. S. S. Blackford, chief of the capitol police, who, accompanied by some of his officers, at once proceeded to the spot. On reaching the roof they found the man completely doubled up and life extinct.

He was somewhat straightened out and removed to a small space near the room where the electric batteries for lighting the dome are stationed, and left to await the arrival of Coroner D. C. Patterson, who had been notified. The body presented a horrible sight to gaze upon. The head had been completely crushed in, and one side of the face was perfectly flat; a deep cut, splitting the skull, traversed across the head about the right eye, and through which portions of the brain were protruding. One eye had sprung from the socket, and appeared ready to drop out. The nose was crushed flat, all the teeth gone but one, some loose in the mouth, and the tongue out and bleeding. The right shoulder was broken, also the arm. The neck had been driven into the body, and the head appeared resting between the two shoulders. About the physiognomy and clothing was a profusion of blood that assisted in making up the sickening sight.

At the inquest, Mr. Edward McMahon, an intelligent looking Irishman, came in, and after examining the body, recognized it as that of his son, James McMahon. He stated that the deceased was born in Ireland, but had been in this country about fifteen years, and in this city six years. He was a carpenter by trade, but had decided to study for the ministry, and with that view had been attending a Catholic theological institute in Baltimore. The reverend father in charge of the institution thought him studying too assiduously and overtasking his brain, and suggested that he return home, take a temporary relaxation from the studies and seek rest and quiet. His sanity has never been the subject of conversation between his parents, although at times his father noticed, in talking, that his sentences were disconnected, and he was somewhat rambling in his speech. He was not addicted to drinking, and no cause could be assigned for the act unless he was temporarily insane.

Mr. Morehead is a son of ex-Governor Morehead, of North Carolina, and the son-in-law of J. W. Lathrop, Sr., of Savannah. His partner is Mr. J. W. Lathrop, Jr., a brother-in-law. These gentlemen bought the property very cheap at its late sale by the United States marshal, and we doubt not have plenty of capital to sustain them. The want of means seemed the only obstacle to the success of their predecessors. We are glad to announce the fact that these mills have gone to work once more. Employment will be furnished to needy families, and the public will be supplied with a class of goods that command a ready sale in our own market. We have been told frequently that the yarns manufactured by the Pulaski mills are the best known, and that our own people prefer them to any other. We shall probably have more to say of these mills in future issues.—Hawkinsville Dispatch.

The Fulton Blues and Atlanta Cadets paraded yesterday, going through the manual of arms with dexterity and ease. The companies were under the command of Lieut. J. C. Boyd, acting Major, and Lieut. T. J. Dabney, acting Adjutant. The proficiency displayed by these companies elicited high commendation from the bystanders.

Another Branch of Manufacture.

We are glad to hear that J. G. Taylor & Co., the well-known billiard table manufacturers of Baltimore, have decided to start a branch factory in Atlanta. They have rented the upper floor of No. 59 Peachtree street, and will soon be in shape to make all kinds of repairs. They propose to begin the manufacture of new work before another winter.

WAGNER'S MINSTRELS.—This company so well and favorably known in our community, will occupy DeGive's to-night. It is unnecessary to call the names of those who compose this "old reliable" organization, each one who is an artist in his speciality. The programme for to-night is a good one, the weather promises favorable, and doubtless a very full house will greet the company.

YESTERDAY the House gallery was thronged by ladies. Spring had a fitting prototype in one of the "fairest of the fair" from Griffin. The presence of so much beauty demoralized the House. Several members were observed kneeling like true knights at the shrine of female loveliness (At the request of the members aforesaid we omit their names, because they don't wish their wives to know it.) The gentleman from Walker called the previous question, which call was sustained; the gentleman from Baldwin in his bland style wanted "only two words," and he was granted a score by several who were not "barefooted widows;" the junior member from Houston got out of his Brown study and "smoled a smile;" the fascinating junior from Thomas county was the cynosure of female eyes for some time in the gallery.

GEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT.—This is now becoming a very popular department in our state. Every day we see evidences of the wisdom of establishing it, and of the good judgment of the governor in placing Prof. Little at the head of it. Immediately upon assuming the duties of the office, the professor went to work. His researches are not intended to confirm from nature the doctrine of miracles; or to prove that this earth was long inhabited by countless races of animals, before it became the abode of man. He is not engaged scooping out the earth, to catch glimpses of the hidden energies of nature; and in each recording stratum of earth's progressive state, to trace the memorials of other times and other beings, when the deep foundations were broken up, and in oblivion were buried the countless races of former ages, whose fossil relics are all that now remain to tell of their existence, or the catastrophe which overwhelmed them. There is something more practical and useful in his work. In the examination of the composition and structure of our extensive vales, rocky hills and towering mountains, the professor is bringing to light the sparkling gems, beautifully formed crystals, minerals, and other substances, which are to add to our wealth, and are to be made subservient to our enjoyment. So far, the state geologist has only been able to visit North Georgia; and his researches prove that that section of our state is literally paved with gems, and he sees no cause why that section should not be made radiant with life, animation and wealth.

LECTURE OF REV. J. D. FULTON.

Quite a large and cultivated audience assembled at James' Hall last night for the purpose of hearing the above named gentleman lecture on the subject mentioned. In a few appropriate remarks, Ex-Gov. Joseph E. Brown introduced the lecturer to the audience. Dr. Fulton has an excellent voice, and is a highly cultivated and entertaining lecturer.

The object of his lecture was to recall attention to the patriotism which distinguished the people in the days of Washington, glanced at the perils which grew out of partizanship, and inquired what could be done to help the growth of an American who shall compass the interests of the entire nation in his love, and work not to advance one section at the expense of another, but to enable the people to fulfill God's purpose in building a nation to bless man.

He said there is a place on the Isthmus which joins North and South America together, standing on which you can hear the roar of two oceans as their waves break the rock bound shores. Is it not possible that the American of to-day occupies as commanding a position? He stands between the American of the past and the American of the future, believing that the possibilities of that future are committed to his keeping. The waves of the past and the future meet at his feet.

We have not space to follow the lecture in his portrayal of the American of the past and the representative of modern days; or how the American of the future is to be made. Setting forth the wonderful things to be achieved by the future American, Dr. Fulton expressed a firm belief in the one government, and the brotherhood which shall precede the good time coming.

The lecture was interspersed with anecdotes, and was frequently applauded.

Bijah's Garter Story.

[Detroit Free Press.]

Bijah entered the court room and took from his pocket a pair of female gaiters with gold clasps. He said they reminded him very much of the journalizing clerk of the House of Representatives. Bijah in the absence of any cases to try, procured pen and ink, and indited the following lines to send to a lady friend:

When from your slumbers you arise,
Dear maiden, then behold these "ties,"
As water mirrors on its face the skies,
May the gift reflect the giver in your eyes.
As these "clasps" your form embrace,
May the giver in your heart find place,
When night appears and day light closes,
And you repose on your bed of roses,
And unclasped these "circlets" meet your view,
Will not then the giver be esteemed by you!

Bijah copied them off carefully and forwarded them to their destination. Unfortunately, however, he left the original draft in his pocket, and his Mirandy Jane found them. She read it "gaiters," and waltzed up to Bijah with the rolling pin, which made him swing corners and turn his partner. She crossed over and brought him such a lick on the head that he came to his knees at once, and promised all the costs of court for a week to atone for it. He explained to his honor the next morning that his head was bandaged because of wounds received by blasting—by an explosion.

His honor replied, your head does look like it was fused!

Pet Grows Petulant.

ATLANTA, February 20, 1875.

Mister Editor: Your attention to a few questions if you please: Is Mr. Shoemaker a married man or not, and if so is he a father, and if so are his children daughters, and do you know Mr. editor, if they are of a marriageable age, and whether they be ugly or not? I think that Mr. Shoemaker's house must be thronged with darters whose last matrimonial chances have expired, as his wish is to force the poor bachelor into a married state or tax him, whether he be willing or not.

Mister editor, I thought it was bad enough and foolish enough when we were taxed and compelled to procure a tag for Tray, Tig and Ring, but when it comes to taxing men simply because they do not wish to get married I consider that playhouse law, and I am sick and tired of law makers.

I hate the legislature, with all its laws and fuss,
Old Shumate, taxing bachelors, I hate him wuss and wuss,
He is the one that done it—he introduced the bill,
He could not make amendment but what I'd hate him still.

PET.

[In answer to "Pet" we would say that Mr. Shewmake is a bachelor, under 25 and very anxious to get married.—House Reporter.]

LECTURES.—It is a pleasure to the reporter to see how the audiences in the lecture rooms of this city have increased within the past year or two. This speaks well for the growing refinement and cultivation of our people. Lectures contribute to the great ends of personal, social, political, intellectual and moral improvement. They tend to exercise the faculties, to strengthen the mind, to elevate the character, to diffuse correct sentiments, liberal feelings and useful knowledge.

The reporter rejoices to see this growing fondness for lectures. The arts which supply our wants, multiply our comforts and embellish our external condition; the sciences which lie at the foundation of these arts, the sentiments and habits which fix the standard of public opinion and give tone to public morals, whatever concerns us in the intercourse of the world, these are subjects which must constantly recur in lectures, and not only entertain but refine, elevate and instruct.

Street and Sidewalk Topics.

—"Be sure the grass is creeping
Upwards to the light again."

It looked yesterday as if winter was about to let go its grip and we should have no further cause to mutter anathemas upon old probs for sending cold and storms upon us.

—But little time was trifled away in the senate yesterday. At least quite a number of bills were disposed of.

—"How little we know of each other,
As we pass through the journey of life,
With its struggles, its fears and temptations,
Its heart-breaking cares and its strife."

A little girl was induced by hunger yesterday to appropriate one or two small articles to eat from a shop in the city. The proprietor very kindly lectured her and permitted her to go, carrying the articles with her.

—"Then smile on me, dear Angeline,
And make my heart feel lite;
Chain the big dog and I will cum
A courting Sunday nite."

George Williams went out on Summer hill Sunday night to see Sallie Jones, but she forgot to chain the dog and he was painfully, though not dangerously, bit on the calf of the right leg.

—Quite a number of the members of the general assembly have been suffering from colds, but the majority of them are all right again.

—General Robert Toombs, of Washington, W. H. Hull, Esq., of Augusta, Mr. F. Phinizy, of Athens, and J. G. McHenry, Esq., of Madison, are in the city.

—Yesterday afternoon was very pleasant and large numbers of persons were on the streets, some for shopping, some for exercise, some loafing, but the larger number to admire the military.

The Ilma De Murska Concert.

A very large audience, full of intelligence, rustling with silks and radiant with beauty and fashion, was present at DeGive's last night. The "trio" charmed the audience into the happiest anticipations for all the rest of the evening. "See Naples and die," sung Ferranti. The reporter heard Mlle. De Murska, and his senses are lulled into a state of happiness which precludes all idea of criticism. The talented corps of assistants were present, and well sustained their several reputations, with the exception of M'me. Sauret, who did not appear, and whose place was taken by Mr. Pratt, the accompanist.

"L'Invito Alla Danza" was very handsomely delivered by Signor Ferranti, and enthusiastically encored. He also sang his favorite "Le Feminine" inimitably. He is undoubtedly the king of buffos. "Violincello Solo," by Signor Braga. He was peerless as a master of his beautiful instrument. His playing was as wonderful as it was sweet. The violin solos of M. Sauret were applauded and encored, and DeMurska, Her voice is as luscious as ripe fruit, and pure in all its transitions. No meadow rivulet courses down its pebbly bed with a fainter trace of anything inharmonious, or a more delightful sense of perfect ease. The beauty of her tones and the chastity and elegance of her method charmed the audience. The compass, flexibility, purity, and timbre of her voice are truly marvelous. It is as clear and brilliant as crystal. It is true, strong, and penetrating. During the evening, she indulged in one of those amazing feats of vocalization for which she has become famous. In the variations on Hungarian songs and in the "Carneval de Venegia," she put forth all her powers, displaying the astonishing compass of her voice, and its remarkable flexibility. The duo from Crispino was the pleasing finale of a brilliant concert.

It is but proper to add, that the audience, in point of fashion, culture and refinement, was one of the best that has assembled at the theater this season.

WE invite attention to the advertisement of Armstrong, Cator & Co., importers and manufacturers of millinery and white goods, of Baltimore. No firm stands higher among our people than the above firm, and we specially commend them to our readers.

MR. SMITH, of Dawson, presided over the deliberations of the House last night with marked urbanity and dignity. He is one of the most influential members from North Georgia.

THE last Thomasville Times contains a four column account of a public indignation meeting against the passage of Mr. Shewmake's bill to tax bachelors. Among the orators was that male coquette John Triplett who scores the female hearts he slays like an Indian does scalps, and Achilles Smith who is known to be invulnerable to female charms—except from the orange groves of Florida.

THE House very properly yesterday authorized the farming out of 100 convicts free of charge to the Atlanta and Amicalola, the Norcross and Dahlonega, and the Marietta and North Georgia railroads. The sections traversed by these roads owe the passage of the measure to the zeal and energy of the gentleman from Dawson.

DEATH OF CORPORAL L. BOLING.

AT CITY OF VERA CRUZ, MEXICO, 1847.

[By John S. Fain, Captain Commanding Co. C., Georgia Infantry Volunteers, War with Mexico, 1847.]

This is a solemn, sad array,
And gloomy is the news,
We've lost one valued soul to-day,
While here at Vera Cruz.

He was a man of vigor strong,
And 'twas his pride and boast
To be amidst the busy throng,
And always at his post.

But death, alas, made his demand,
Here on this lonely spot,
Amongst these rugged banks of sand,
Once occupied by Scott.

Oh, death, thou art within our camp,
Of mortals 'tis their lot,
Of life to yield the brilliant lamp,
To moulder and then rot.

But though he sleeps now with the dead,
He's left a name behind;
A wreath about his honored head,
Beloved by all mankind.

The Coal Question.

ATLANTA, GA., Feb. 22, 1875.

Dr. George Little, State Geologist:

DEAR SIR: In all of the daily papers last Sunday appears an article making inquiries whether the use of coal that has been stocked in yards during the fall will produce sickness or not. As a dealer in coal I shall be pleased to have your opinion on this subject. Enclosed please find copy of article referred to. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. F. EDWARDS, Coal Dealer.

ATLANTA, GA., Feb. 22, 1875.

Mr. John F. Edwards,

DEAR SIR: In compliance with your request, I give you my opinion on the subject of the influence of coal upon health.

I have never heard of any one being injured by the exhalations from a coal heap as they are so small in amount, compared with the bulk of the atmosphere as to be entirely unappreciable.

As to the effect from burning such coal, if the gases go up the chimney they effect no one, if they go into the room, freshly mined coal would be more likely to produce injurious results or would do so in less time as the sulphuret of iron from which sulphurated hydrogen and sulphurous acid are formed by exposure to the air and moisture would be converted into sulphate of iron and become less liable to injure. Very respectfully, yours, &c.,

GEORGE LITTLE, State Geologist.

For the Young Ladies.

Young ladies, cut this out and pin it on your bonnets:

No young lady ought to feel herself qualified to become a wife until she is sure she understands how to do the most that can be done with her husband's money. The management of a household is not a thing to be properly and safely entrusted to hireling hands. A servant is a broken reed for the head of a family to lean upon. There are a thousand little ways in which real enterprise and shrewdness are required in order to use it to the best advantage; and there are a thousand other ways of saving money, open only to those who have studied aright the art of economy.

The Turkish proverb has it that "a prudent woman is a mine of jewels," and, like many other Oriental sayings, that is beautiful for the truth it embodies. A wasteful housekeeper not only actually robs those for whom she undertakes to manage of the comforts it is her duty to provide for them, but keeps her husband head over ears in debt, and makes the domestic life of a poor man a continuous series of experiments in shunning it from one day to the next; in keeping the stomach full, though the purse be empty.

—General G. W. C. and Miss Lee, the son and daughter of one who contributed as much to add lustre to the American name as any of the nation's heroes, living or dead, reached the city yesterday, and have taken apartments at the St. James. To each, it is scarcely necessary to say, that in a city where the name of Lee is a treasured relic, all extend a hearty welcome. Notwithstanding the inclement weather, General Lee was taken into the hospitable custody of a host of friends, and spent the evening out. An opportunity of waiting upon Miss Lee, and extending those courtesies they so well know how to bestow, will be regarded by our ladies a privilege, of which few will fail to avail themselves.—N. O. Times, 16th.

SYNOPSIS OF A SERMON

Preached on Sabbath Morning in the First Presbyterian Church, by Rev. J. H. Martin.

THE TRANSFIGURATION.

The discourse was founded on Mat. 17:13. The transfiguration of our Lord was one of the most remarkable and glorious scenes of his earthly life. It took place on the summit of a high mountain, whither our Savior had retired to pray, taking with him Peter, James and John. "And as he prayed the fashion of his countenance was altered, his face shone as the sun, and his raiment became white as the light." He was transfigured, metamorphosed—that is, changed in form and appearance. The substance of his body remained the same, but a wonderful change took place in its visible aspect. Christ suddenly displayed an effulgent brightness. His divine majesty beamed forth with overpowering splendor. He manifested himself in the glory of his godhead.

Moses and Elijah, visitants from the celestial world, appeared in glory, and conversed with him. The three apostles were present as eye witnesses. They saw his glory, and the two men which stood with him. They beheld the scene with mingled feelings of awe and delight. They were "sore afraid," yet so enraptured that they wished to abide in that place. Peter said unto Jesus, "Lord it is good for us to be here; if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias."

What was the design of this amazing transfiguration? The preacher stated that a great diversity of opinions had been expressed by biblical interpreters and commentators concerning this scene in our Saviour's history. He quoted from the views of Kitto, Barnes, Adams, Clarke, and others and then proceeded to exhibit his own conceptions with regard to the leading designs and ends of the transfiguration. He enumerated five distinct things which it was intended to accomplish.

The first design was to afford the three apostles who were present, a sensible and convincing proof of Christ's divinity, so that through their testimony, others might believe in Him as the Son of God. Peter, in his second epistle, written long afterward, refers to the transfiguration of our Lord as a visible and sensible display of his divine majesty and power, and undeniable proof that his gospel is true, "For we have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were eye-witnesses of his majesty when we were with him in the holy mount."

A second design was to teach that, as a lawgiver and religious instructor, Christ is superior to Moses and the prophets, and the author of a new dispensation that supersedes the legal and prophetical dispensations. Moses was the great lawgiver of Israel, and Elijah the chief of the prophets. These two men who appeared on the mount were the representatives of the law and the prophets. They confess their inferiority to Christ, acknowledge that as Messiah he is greater than all former messengers of Jehovah, lay down their commissions and honors at his feet, and surrender into his hands their delegated and expiring power. The voice of the father also proclaimed, "This is my beloved son, hear ye him. When I spake by Moses I required my people to hear him. When I spake by Elijah and the other prophets I commanded my people to hear them. But I am now speaking by my son, and I demand that men shall hear him. In the transfiguration, therefore we see Jesus exalted and honored above all former prophets, and declared to be a teacher sent from God, whose doctrines and commands all are required to receive and obey.

A third design was to teach that the death of Christ was to be a propitiatory sacrifice for the sins of men. For Moses and Elijah talked with Jesus and "spake of his decease which he should accomplish at Jerusalem." This shows that the death of Christ as an atonement for sin was the great object to which Moses and the prophets rightly understood, directed mankind. In his person and obedience unto death, the moral law was magnified, the ceremonial types were fulfilled, the prophecies were accomplished, and the end of all preceding dispensations answered.

A fourth design was to reveal on earth the future glory of Christ after his resurrection and ascension into heaven. Having a short time before told the apostles of his approaching death, which filled their hearts with sorrow, he now gave three of them a glimpse of his glory in his subsequent exaltation. He was first to suffer and die, and then enter into his glory, of which he afforded a transient exhibition. At the same time the glorious appearance of Moses and Elijah indicated what all the followers of Christ should be, when their bodies should be raised from the dead and transformed to the power of God. This typical scene represents the personal glory of Christ and the glory of his redeemed people in a future state.

A fifth design, therefore, of the transfiguration was to prepare the apostles to the disciples of Christ for sufferings, and to animate them in his service. He offers celestial and eternal glory as the motive to faith and obedience, and the reward of patient endurance in his cause. The hope of a crown stimulated the ardor of those who contended in the Grecian games. The prospect of military glory in Italy led Napoleon to force the passage of the Alps. It is said that for the joy set before him, Jesus himself endured the cross, and despised the shame. His followers are encouraged by the promise of a crown of glory that fadeth not away. This is the grand incentive to self-denial and holy living; to zeal, usefulness and good works; to patience, fortitude and constancy in doing and suffering God's will. A specimen of this promised glory was given to the disciples on the mount.

We see from this subject the transforming power of prayer. Jesus was transfigured while in the act of praying. In like manner the soul will be transfigured by habitual communion with God, and be caused to shine with divine lustre and beauty.

We also see that Christ is the connecting link of the old and new dispensations, the bond of union between saints in all ages of the world. Moses and Elijah representing old testament saints, Peter, James and John representing new testament believers, went on the mount, embraced Jesus as their common Lord and redeemer, and all together from one body in him. The true church of God is one, existing through all generations and diffused through the whole world, and Christ is the centre of unity to its members.

We learn further that true joy and happiness spring from the presence of Christ and a perception of his glory. Peter was unspeakably happy in beholding Jesus transfigured on the mount. In the fullness of his joy he said: "Lord, it is good for us to be here." We can see Christ by faith, and have his spiritual presence, and the effect will be joy and gladness in the soul. Whom not having seen, ye love, in whom, though now ye see him not, yet believing ye rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory.

The speaker concluded with an application of the subject, by pointing out the practical effects which the transfiguration should produce in us.

It should confirm our faith in the divinity and offices of Christ.

It should support us under trials, and in the prospect of death.

It should influence our hearts with zeal and ardor in the performance of duty.

It should excite sinners to come to Christ, and seek after that glory which is reserved for all believers in a future state.

The aggregate of state debts in the union in 1874 were $382,970,517, being an increase of $38,200,000 since 1870. Of this amount $164,732,000 is in default, the defaulting states being Alabama, on $21,350,000; Arkansas, on $12,8000; Florida, on $3,774,000; Georgia, on $11,000,000; Louisiana, on $24,433,000; Minnesota, on $2 275,000; Mississippi, on $7,000,000; North Carolina, on $24,000,000; South Carolina, on $13 2000 000; and Virginia, on $46,000,000. Of the total state debts, $92,924,000 is estimated to be held abroad, and of the amount in default $54,174,000 is held abroad. The debts in default bear an average interest of about 7 per cent.

COMMERCIAL ITEMS.

THE FAILURES OF 1874.

The total number of failures in 1874, were 6,830; liabilities $150 239,000. In 1873 there were 5,183; liabilities, $288,499,000, and in 1872, 4,069; liabilities, $121,056,000. It is thought that the worst is passed.

RAILROAD DIVIDENDS.

The Financial Chronicle publishes a list of all the dividend-paying roads in the United States, by which it appears that the whole amount of the stock outstanding in 1874 of all railroads that have paid any dividends since 1869 is, in round numbers, $1,178,000,000, and the proportion of this stock issued since 1870 is $281,000,000, or about 24 per cent. In the years 1873 and 1874 dividends fell off materially, and the stock on which dividends were paid in the latter year was only $899,000,000, or 46 per cent. of the total amount of railroad stock outstanding in the country, if we take this to be $1,947,000,000, as given in Mr. Poor's last book. The latter figures, however, have really no significance, as there is not an item in the whole classification of railroad statistics which is so frequently mythical as that of "stock outstanding," so far as it pretends to represent an actual outlay of capital. The increase of stock since 1870 is shown to have been large, amounting to $281,000,000.

DISFRANCHISING NEGROES.

In the United States circuit court, before Hon. Judge Bond, a motion was made on Wednesday last by D. L. Russell, Esq., counsel for plaintiff, for an injunction to prohibit the holding of a municipal election at Wilmington, North Carolina, on the ground that the charter recently adopted by the state legislature disfranchises negroes. The case will be tried at Raleigh on March 6, proximo.

ABOUT MOMENTS.

People have been reckoning by months and weeks to the day of the last library drawing. They must now begin to reckon by days; of these there are but eleven to be counted. Take out the Sunday and only ten days are left in which to secure a chance for a large or a small fortune. Still it has always been the moment of time that has made the destinies of individuals or of nations. It takes but a moment to secure a ticket in this last drawing, and who can tell that moment may not be the most momentous moment of one's life? Look to it! Tickets for sale by J. H. Jones & Co., at Phillips & Crew's, Atlanta. feb23—d1t

DESPISE NOT THE DAY OF SMALL THINGS.

In looking at the scheme of the last Public Library Drawing, people seem to neglect a very important part of it. They are so dazzled with the magnificent gifts there offered that they neglect or overlook the minor ones. Yet many of them are fortunes for most men. From one to twenty thousand dollars looks small when compared with the four great gifts, yet either sum might satisfy a man of ordinary greed; and of these comparatively small gifts there are 255 to be had, and then there are 19570 gifts yet smaller, but more insignificant. The 27th of the month will gratify a great many who do not reach the very greatest gifts. Tickets for sale by J. H. Jones & Co., at Phillips & Crew's, Atlanta. feb23—d1t
